DIRECTIONS TO CONTRIBUTORS

Asian Affairs, An American Review publishes contemporary policy relevant studies of Asian countries, intra-Asian relations, and America's ties with the Asian region. The quarterly journal addresses issues that significantly affect political, economic, and security policies in both domestic and international contexts. The journal is directed to scholars, policy makers, government officials, business executives, and others with a professional interest in Asia. Articles are usually no longer than five thousand words and should be submitted in duplicate.
